Robinson & Lawing, LLP Attorneys Involved with Major CLE Seminars

June 8, 2009 (Winston-Salem, N.C.) – Several attorneys at Robinson & Lawing, LLP have the pleasure of being asked to present papers at major continuing legal education seminars.

At the end of April, Michelle Reingold presented the case law update at the annual Family Law Section Meeting of the North Carolina Bar Association in Charleston, South Carolina. Her presentation explained the implications of appellate cases related to family law and procedural issues from the last year.

Later this month, W. Mark Peck will conduct the workers' compensation breakout session at the annual convention of the North Carolina Association of Defense Attorneys in Hilton Head Island, South Carolina. His presentation will focus on discovery issues in workers' compensation cases, including the objections that can be asserted in response to claimants' requests for information, what materials employers and carriers are required to produce to comply with the Industrial Commission rules, and special considerations with respect to electronic discovery.

This fall, Jolinda Babcock will present a paper on mediated settlement conferences at the Basics in Workers' Compensation CLE being conducted by the Workers' Compensation Section of the North Carolina Bar Association. Her topics will include strategies for preparing and planning mediations and techniques for making settlement conferences a success. C. Ray Grantham, Jr., and Michelle Reingold will present a session on Rule 45 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure at the annual Fall Family Law CLE seminar. The workshop will address procedural and practical issues with respect to subpoenas.
